Franklin Carter, the rector of the church, conducted the ceremony, using the regular Episcopal service. Contrary to the expectations of outsiders, the President's grandson was christened Francis Woodrow Sayre.

Only the immediate members of the family and a few close friends of the Sayre family attended the baptism, which took place at 2:30 o'clock. Williard E. Hoyt, the treasurer of the college, and his wife: Dr. Vanderpool Adriance, the family physician, and his wife were among the first to arrive at the church. Grayson, the White House physician.

An automobile carried President Wilson and the Sayre family to the scene of the baptism. A cold wind and the harsh, damp atmosphere made it necessary again for Master Sayre to be bundled up in a blanket while he was carried to the church in the arms of his father.
